

Aeiress Duhart-Lewis is a native of Little Rock, Arkansas. She has a Master of Science in Clinical Research Organization and Management and has over 10 years of experience in pharmaceutical clinical research. She started as a study coordinator's assistant and has progressed to become a Senior Clinical Team Manager at a global clinical research organization. Aeiress takes pride in educating vulnerable and minority populations about clinical research and hopes to create safe spaces for those who want to contribute ethically and safely to the clinical research industry.